

VETERANS ADVOCATE NACVSO PARTNERS WITH H-WAVE FOR BETTER CHRONIC PAIN MANAGEMENT

Washington, DC., - December 2018 -

The National Association of County Veterans Service Officers (NACVSO), a national association of government employees that aggressively pursues all benefits for veterans and eligible family members through education, training and advocacy programs, has announced a joint partnership with Electronic Waveform Lab, Inc. (EWL). EWL is the developer and manufacturer of the H-Wave® device, a unique technology providing unmatched success in rehabilitation and long term chronic pain control.

“ This partnership is a marriage of two like-minded institutions that work to help and heal our veterans...H-Wave shares our goal in ensuring every claimant, veteran and eligible dependent alike, have access to technology that can lessen the effects of long-term pain. ”

- NACVSO President, Herman Breuer

Huntington Beach, California-based Electronic Waveform Lab, is a privately held corporation and an “American-made” company as all business operations, manufacturing, repairs, research, development, customer service and customer support are done in-house. A veteran-owned business, the company is proud to provide products and services to improve the quality of life for those that have served our country. Its patented H-Wave® device has been proved effective in relieving long-term chronic pain in more than a dozen peer-reviewed studies.

“ This partnership is in accordance with our mission...First, we have an opportunity to potentially relieve pain for thousands who suffer, and second, we have a chance to give back to those who have served. ”

- Ryan Heaney, President of Electronic Waveform Lab

The National Association of County Veterans Service Officers is an organization made up of local government employees. A vast amount of claims received by the Veterans Administration originate in a county veterans service office where NACVSO members assist veterans in developing and processing their claims.

Through its workforce of more than 1,800 members in 36 states as well as Native American tribes, NACVSO focuses on outreach, standardized quality training, claims development and advocacy. NACVSO is an extension or arm of government, not unlike the VA itself in service to the nation’s veterans and their dependents.

The National Association of County Veterans Service Officers is an organization made up of local government employees who are tasked with assisting veterans in developing and processing their claims. Our members sit with men and women, our friends, neighbors and members of our communities, to help them receive the veterans’ benefits and support they deserve. We exist to serve veterans and collaborate with the national service organizations and the Department of Veterans Affairs.
